

You are walking with your friend at night and you come across a creepy, dark, and abandoned house.

You decide to go into the house to check out what's inside

You start heading home because it's too creepy

You and your friend trip on an unknown object as you are running up to the house, and hear an evil laughter.

You hear a deep voice coming from the house that screams "come back here!"

You get up and keep heading toward the house

You and your friend run away from the house as fast as possible

You knock on the door 3 times. The house is really scary, and you hear a creepy woman's voice from inside the house.

You eventually make it back home safe and sound and your friend sleeps over.

You open the door

You call the police

You refuse to comply with the officer

You get arrested and end up in jail until your parents come and get you.

Two police officers arrive, and they tell you to leave the house alone and to stop bothering people.

An old lady is in the house watching tv, and she offers to bake cookies for you.

You and your friend accept the offer

You eat the fresh cookies and they taste delicious! You thank the lady and leave, you get home safe and sound.

You and your friend refuse the offer and leave

You both arrive home safe and have a good night's sleep, thankful for not getting into any risky or dangerous situations

You apologize and you stop trying to bother the house

The cop thanks you and drives you and your friend home safe.